

Better gas mileage will help protect us from oil supply disruptions.

REASON
#1

SECURITY

With America increasingly dependent on oil from politically unstable regions of the world, security experts warn that America urgently needs to develop more fuel efficient cars and trucks. Achieving that goal can significantly reduce our vulnerability to oil supply disruptions – plus impede the global warming that brings its own international dangers.

It's time to increase gas mileage for new cars and trucks.

Learn more at PewFuelEfficiency.org.